Bio

Chris Hutton is the Director of Programs Administration at DoGoodery, where he oversees DoGoodery's day-to-day programmatic operations, ensuring initiatives adhere to agreed upon scopes of work and timelines. He collaborates on overall program strategy, communications, evaluation, and engagement, while overseeing program design, delivery, maintenance, and coordination.

Chris Hutton has over ten years of experience as a project and programs manager with additional professional experience as a copywriter, designer, and web developer. He has designed, coded, coordinated, written copy for, contributed to, and managed websites for a variety of clients, including The Walt Disney Company, Midnight Oil, and the North American Association for Environmental Education (NAAEE). Chris cut his teeth in entertainment as a voice-over writer and story-producer for programs that aired on the Discovery Channel and Animal Planet. While with NAAEE, he worked on day-to-day operations and program management for the Cal Water H2O Challenge and the UL Innovative Education Award, overseeing both from launch through their first five years of operation.

Chris graduated summa cum laude as valedictorian from North Carolina State University with a Bachelor of Art Design and a Bachelor of the Arts in Multidisciplinary Studies, along with minors in Italian and Architecture. He also holds a Masters degree from the University of Southern California in Writing for Film & Television.
